

Flipping out for NT titles

DAMIEN McCARTNEY | September 6th, 2013

A+ A- Print Email Share

Jacob Scott has been in training for this weekend's NT Gymnastics Championships at Marrara. Picture: KATRINA BRIDGEFORD

THE best of the Territory are preparing for this weekend's NT Gymnastics Championships.

More than 160 gymnasts will compete.

Gymnastics NT executive director Adam Wicks said competitors would perform in front of one of the world's most accredited judges, Helen Colagiuri, who is the women's technical director for Gymnastics Australia and worked at the Sydney and Beijing Olympics.

She has also judged at three Commonwealth Games and six world championships.

Wicks said Colagiuri would also hold a workshop on women's judging.

"It's fantastic for the gymnasts, that they'll be judged by one of the best judges in the world," he said.

Wicks said 15 gymnasts would be making the trek from Alice Springs.

"There are only about 100 registered gymnasts down there, so to have 15 of them coming up here for the titles is great," he said.

"They're really good numbers and should ensure some good competition."

The championships take place at the Marrara Gymnastics Hall tomorrow and Sunday. Spectators are welcome.